Types of Advisory Services

Detailed Financial Plan and Recommendations

Financial planning is a comprehensive evaluation of a client's current and future financial state by using currently known variables to predict future cash flows, asset values, and withdrawal plans. The key defining aspect of financial planning is that through the financial planning process, all questions, information and analysis will be considered as they impact and are impacted by the entire financial and life situation of the client. Clients purchasing this service will receive a written or an electronic report, providing the client with a detailed financial plan designed to achieve his or her stated financial goals and objectives.

The client always has the right to decide whether or not to act upon our recommendations. If the client elects to act on any of the recommendations, the client always has the right to affect the transactions through anyone of their choosing.

In general, the financial plan will address any or all of the following areas of concern.

- Estate Planning: This usually includes an analysis of your current estate plan, which may include whether you have a will, trust, powers of attorney, trusts and other related documents. Our advice also may include ways for you to minimize or avoid future estate taxes by implementing appropriate estate planning strategies.

We always recommend that you consult with a qualified attorney when you initiate, update, or complete estate planning activities. We may provide you with contact information for attorneys who specialize in estate planning when you wish to hire an attorney for such purposes. From time-to-time, we will participate in meetings or phone calls between you and your attorney with your approval.

- Insurance/Risk Management: May include a review of existing policies to ensure proper coverages (as necessitated by a client's particular situation). Policies that may be reviewed include life, disability, liability, and earthquake. May also include coverage level recommendations and recommendations around risk management. Coverages such as home, auto, and medical will not be reviewed or analyzed unless you specifically request MFT to do so.
- Investment Analysis: This may involve developing an asset allocation strategy to meet clients' financial goals and risk tolerance, providing information on investment vehicles and strategies, reviewing employee stock options, as well as assisting you in establishing your own investment account at a selected employer, broker/dealer, or custodian. This may also involve recommendations around paying off various debt, investments in real estate, and/or emergency funds. The strategies and types of investments we may recommend are further discussed in Item 8 of this brochure.
- Retirement Planning: Our retirement planning services typically include projections of your likelihood of achieving your financial goals, typically focusing on financial independence as the primary objective. For situations where projections show less than the desired results, we may make recommendations, including those that may impact the original projections by adjusting certain variables (e.g., working longer, saving more, spending less, taking more risk with investments).

If you are near retirement or already retired, advice may be given on appropriate distribution strategies to minimize the likelihood of running out of money or having to adversely alter spending during your retirement years.

- Tax Planning Strategies: Advice may include ways to minimize current and future income taxes as a part of your overall financial planning picture. For example, we may make recommendations on which type of account(s) or specific investments should be owned based in part on their “tax efficiency,” with consideration that there is always a possibility of future changes to federal, state or local tax laws and rates that may affect your situation. Planning in this regard could include recommendations around college savings, insurance, retirement plans, employer sponsored retirement accounts, self-employment retirement accounts, estate tax, and other tax rules and accounts. Tax structuring for business may also be part of these recommendations and analysis. There is no guarantee that tax planning in this regard will not be adversely affected by future law changes at the federal and/or state level. Further, considering the complexity involved in the tax laws, there can be no guarantee that federal and state taxing authorities (such as the Internal Revenue Service) will view the tax law’s application to a particular set of circumstances (including your own) the same way that MFT views them.

Planning in this regard does not include the preparation of any tax returns or forms.

MFT does offer individual and business tax consulting services as well as tax return preparation and offers to represent clients before the IRS and state taxing authorities. No client is obligated to use MFT for any accounting services. MFT’s accounting services do not include the authority to sign checks or otherwise disburse funds on any of our advisory client's behalf.

- Major Purchase/Cash Flow Needs: This may include an assessment of, and recommendations regarding, debt/mortgage payoff, mortgage terms, funding college educations, or funding other pressing needs or desires.

Clients receive a financial plan discussing the above subject areas. Clients work with MFT for a period generally not to exceed 90 days as part of this planning process.

Revised Detailed Financial Plan and Recommendations

This service is exclusively for clients who have previously been clients of MFT. For a reduced price (see Item 5), MFT will produce a revised detailed financial plan addressing the six areas discussed immediately above.

Clients receive a financial plan discussing the above subject areas. Clients work with MFT for a period generally not to exceed 90 days as part of this planning process.

Hourly Extension of Detailed Financial Plan and Recommendations or Revised Detailed Financial Plan and Recommendations

In limited circumstances, MFT and a client may agree that at the end of the 90 day planning period, there is a need to continue working together on financial planning. MFT and clients can agree to extend the financial planning process period for 30 days at a time. The fees for such extensions are $360 per hour billed in quarter hour increments.

Fourth Quarter Tax Planning

This service is exclusively for clients who have previously been clients of MFT. Clients work with MFT starting no earlier than October 1st and no later than December 1st. MFT will produce detailed recommendations regarding year-end tax planning, which may include retirement plan establishment and/or contributions, other income tax planning, and/or retirement tax planning (such as Roth conversions). Such services end no later than January 1st immediately following the relevant fourth quarter. Fourth Quarter Tax Planning is a planning service and does not include the preparation of any tax returns or forms.

There is no guarantee that tax planning in this regard will not be adversely affected by future law changes at the federal and/or state level. Further, considering the complexity involved in the tax laws, there can be no guarantee that federal and state taxing authorities (such as the Internal Revenue Service) will view the tax law's application to a particular set of circumstances (including your own) the same way that MFT views them.

CCR Section 260.235.2 Disclosure

For clients who receive our Financial Planning services, we must state when a conflict exists between the interests of our firm and the interests of our client. The client is under no obligation to act upon our recommendation. If the client elects to act on any of the recommendations, the client is under no obligation to affect the transaction through our firm.

Item 5: Fees and Compensation

Please note, unless a client has received the firm's disclosure brochure at least 48 hours prior to signing the investment advisory contract, the investment advisory contract may be terminated by the client within five (5) business days of signing the contract without incurring any advisory fees and without penalty. Item 6: Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

We do not offer performance-based fees.

Item 7: Types of Clients

We provide financial planning and portfolio management services to individuals, high net-worth individuals and corporations or other businesses. There are no minimum asset or income requirements to be a MFT client

The investment advisor representative of MFT may from time to time conduct speaking engagements and/or educational workshops which may include presentations on financial planning, investment planning, estate planning, retirement planning, and tax planning. Attendees are welcome to explore engaging MFT to provide services, but are under no obligation to do so. MFT's investment advisor representative may also present workshops for other investment professionals and/or tax professionals which focus on financial planning, tax planning, and practice management. MFT may provide advisory services to other financial advisory firms and/or other tax professionals on a subcontractual basis or on an as needed basis.

MFT reserves the right to decline services to any prospective client for any nondiscriminatory reason.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

We may refer clients to third-party investment advisers ("outside managers"). Our analysis of outside managers involves the examination of the experience, expertise, investment philosophies, and past performance of the outside managers in an attempt to determine if that manager has demonstrated an ability to invest over a period of time and in different economic conditions. We monitor the manager's underlying holdings, strategies, concentrations and leverage as part of our overall periodic risk assessment. Additionally, as part of our due-diligence process, we survey the manager's compliance and business enterprise risks. A risk of investing with an outside manager who has been successful in the past is that he/she may not be able to replicate that success in the future. In addition, as we do not control the underlying investments in an outside manager's portfolio, there is also a risk that a manager may deviate from the stated investment mandate or strategy of the portfolio, making it a less suitable investment for our clients. Moreover, as we do not control the manager's daily business and compliance operations, we may be unaware of the lack of internal controls necessary to prevent business, regulatory, or reputational deficiencies.

Passive Investment Management

We generally recommend passive investment strategies. Passive investing involves building portfolios that are comprised of various distinct asset classes. The asset classes are weighted in a manner to achieve a desired relationship between correlation, risk and return. Funds that passively capture the returns of the desired asset classes are placed in the portfolio. The funds that are used to build passive portfolios are typically index mutual funds or exchange traded funds.

Passive investment management is characterized by low portfolio expenses (i.e. the funds inside the portfolio have low internal costs), minimal trading costs (due to infrequent trading activity), and relative tax efficiency (because the funds inside the portfolio are tax efficient and turnover inside the portfolio is minimal).

In contrast, active management involves a single manager or managers who employ some method, strategy or technique to construct a portfolio that is intended to generate returns that are greater than the broader market or a designated benchmark.

Material Risks Involved

All investing strategies we offer involve risk and may result in a loss of your original investment which you should be prepared to bear. Many of these risks apply equally to stocks, bonds, commodities and any other investment or security. Material risks associated with our investment strategies are listed below.

Market Risk: Market risk involves the possibility that an investment's current market value will fall because of a general market decline, reducing the value of the investment regardless of the success of the issuer's operations or its financial condition.

Strategy Risk: The Adviser's investment strategies and/or investment techniques may not work as intended.

Small and Medium Cap Company Risk: Securities of companies with small and micro market capitalizations are often more volatile and less liquid than investments in larger companies. Small and medium cap companies may face a greater risk of business failure, which could increase the volatility of the client's portfolio.

Turnover Risk: At times, the strategy may have a portfolio turnover rate that is higher than other strategies. A high portfolio turnover would result in correspondingly greater brokerage commission expenses and may result in the distribution of additional capital gains for tax purposes. These factors may negatively affect the account's performance.

Limited markets: Certain securities may be less liquid (harder to sell or buy) and their prices may at times be more volatile than at other times. Under certain market conditions we may be unable to sell or liquidate investments at prices we consider reasonable or favorable or find buyers at any price.

Concentration Risk: Certain investment strategies focus on particular asset-classes, industries, sectors or types of investment. From time to time these strategies may be subject to greater risks of adverse developments in such areas of focus than a strategy that is more broadly diversified across a wider variety of investments.

Interest Rate Risk: Bond (fixed income) prices generally fall when interest rates rise, and the value may fall below par value or the principal investment. The opposite is also generally true: bond prices generally rise when interest rates fall. In general, fixed income securities with longer maturities are more sensitive to these price changes. Most other investments are also sensitive to the level and direction of interest rates.

Legal or Legislative Risk: Legislative changes or Court rulings may impact the value of investments, or the securities' claim on the issuer's assets and finances.

Inflation: Inflation may erode the buying-power of your investment portfolio, even if the dollar value of your investments remains the same.

Risks Associated with Securities

Apart from the general risks outlined above which apply to all types of investments, specific securities may have other risks.

Commercial Paper is, in most cases, an unsecured promissory note that is issued with a maturity of 270 days or less. Being unsecured the risk to the investor is that the issuer may default.

Common stocks may go up and down in price quite dramatically, and in the event of an issuer's bankruptcy or restructuring could lose all value. A slower-growth or recessionary economic environment could have an adverse effect on the price of all stocks.

Corporate Bonds are debt securities to borrow money. Generally, issuers pay investors periodic interest and repay the amount borrowed either periodically during the life of the security and/or at maturity. Alternatively, investors can purchase other debt securities, such as zero coupon bonds, which do not pay current interest, but rather are priced at a discount from their face values and their values accrete over time to face value at maturity. The market prices of debt securities fluctuate depending on such factors as interest rates, credit quality, and maturity. In general, market prices of debt securities decline when interest rates rise and increase when interest rates fall. The longer the time to a bond's maturity, the greater its interest rate risk.

Bank Obligations including bonds and certificates of deposit may be vulnerable to setbacks or panics in the banking industry. Banks and other financial institutions are greatly affected by interest rates and may be adversely affected by downturns in the U.S. and foreign economies or changes in banking regulations.

Municipal Bonds are debt obligations generally issued to obtain funds for various public purposes, including the construction of public facilities. Municipal bonds pay a lower rate of return than most other types of bonds. However, because of a municipal bond's tax-favored status, investors should compare the relative after-tax return to the after-tax return of other bonds, depending on the investor's tax bracket. Investing in municipal bonds carries the same general risks as investing in bonds in general. Those risks include interest rate risk, reinvestment risk, inflation risk, market risk, call or redemption risk, credit risk, and liquidity and valuation risk.

Options and other derivatives carry many unique risks, including time-sensitivity, and can result in the complete loss of principal. While covered call writing does provide a partial hedge to the stock against which the call is written, the hedge is limited to the amount of cash flow received when writing the option. When selling covered calls, there is a risk the underlying position may be called away at a price lower than the current market price.

Exchange Traded Funds prices may vary significantly from the Net Asset Value due to market conditions. Certain Exchange Traded Funds may not track underlying benchmarks as expected.

Investment Companies Risk. When a client invests in open end mutual funds or ETFs, the client indirectly bears its proportionate share of any fees and expenses payable directly by those funds. Therefore, the client will incur higher expenses, many of which may be duplicative. In addition, the client's overall portfolio may be affected by losses of an underlying fund and the level of risk arising from the investment practices of an underlying fund (such as the use of derivatives). ETFs are also subject to the following risks: (i) an ETF's shares may trade at a market price that is above or below their net asset value; (ii) the ETF may employ an investment strategy that utilizes high leverage ratios; or (iii) trading of an ETF's shares may be halted if the listing exchange's officials deem such action appropriate, the shares are de-listed from the exchange, or the activation of market-wide "circuit breakers" (which are tied to large decreases in stock prices) halts stock trading generally. The Adviser has no control over the risks taken by the underlying funds in which clients invest.

Disclosure of Material Conflicts

All material conflicts of interest under CCR Section 260.238(k) are disclosed regarding MFT, its representatives or any of its employees, which could be reasonably expected to impair the rendering of unbiased and objective advice.

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

As a fiduciary, our firm and its associates have a duty of utmost good faith to act solely in the best interests of each client.

Code of Ethics Description

MFT's Code of Ethics is as follows:

Unbiased and Objective: MFT will strive to provide unbiased, objective advice. Biases can never be fully eliminated. For example, people tend to be biased based on their motivations, such as being biased in favor of (i) the advice they have previously rendered and (ii) their previously published commentary. MFT will strive to consider each unique client and render unbiased and objective advice.

Confidentiality: MFT keeps all client data private, unless authorization is received from the client to share it. MFT will take care in storing and disposing client data.

Competence and Judgment: MFT will strive to develop and maintain appropriate knowledge and judgment with respect to the client situations it advises on. Sean W. Mullaney is subject to continuing professional education requirements as a licensed certified public accountant in California and is subject to continuing education requirements as the investment advisor representative of MFT. MFT and Sean W. Mullaney will work to ensure he satisfies both continuing education requirements.

Professionalism: MFT will strive to act professionally in professional interactions with clients, prospective clients, and members of the public.

Clients' Best Interests: MFT strives to advise clients consistent with their best interests.

Integrity: MFT will strive to act with honesty and integrity in client interactions and public interactions. MFT will strive to give clients grace in the course of interacting with them. Not everyone bats one thousand in all their email and meeting interactions, and MFT will strive to give clients and prospective clients grace in dealing with them.

Compliance: MFT strives to satisfy the legal requirements involved in operating its business.

Disclosure: MFT discloses to clients fees and conflicts of interest.

We require all firm access persons to attest to their understanding of and adherence to the Code of Ethics annually. The Code of Ethics is updated as appropriate. The Code of Ethics is published in the publicly available MFT Form ADV Part 2.

Investment Recommendations Involving a Material Financial Interest and Conflicts of Interest

Neither our firm, its associates, or any related person is authorized to recommend to a client, or effect a transaction for a client, involving any security in which our firm or a related person has a material financial interest, such as in the capacity as an underwriter, adviser to the issuer, etc.

Personal Trading

A recommendation made to one client may be different in nature or in timing from a recommendation made to a different client.

MFT will only own interests in bank accounts and other cash and cash-equivalent accounts and interests (such as deposits and prepayments of fees on the IARD system).

Persons related to MFT (such as Sean W. Mullaney) may buy or sell securities the same or similar to those we recommend to clients for their accounts. As described in Item 8, MFT generally advises clients using passive investments. Such investments are usually broadly held and consist of hundreds or thousands of individual securities. This mitigates the risk that a person related to MFT could be advantaged by a client taking action based on an MFT investment recommendation, and it mitigates the risk that a client could be disadvantaged by a person related to MFT buying or selling the same or similar investment.

At no time will MFT or any related party receive preferential treatment over its clients. Further, any such purchases or sales of securities by MFT's related persons will be done in a manner consistent with the Code of Ethics and related persons will maintain securities transactions records.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

MFT recommends or has recommended firms such as Vanguard, Fidelity, Schwab, or similar broker/dealer firms. Recommendations are based upon quality, cost, and specific client needs. Ultimately, it is the client who makes the decision as to where to execute their transactions, not MFT. MFT does not receive any commission, soft dollars, client referrals or any other benefits from recommending a particular broker-dealer.

MFT permits clients to choose the direct brokerage of their choice. Clients understand that it is their decision which broker-dealer to use.

Item 13: Review of Accounts

MFT provides financial planning services (as described in Item 4). No account reviews are performed, unless such reviews are requested by the client. MFT will not perform a review of client accounts or financial plans unless the Client requests a review of accounts.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

We do not receive any economic benefit, directly or indirectly from any third party for advice rendered to our clients. Nor do we directly or indirectly compensate any person who is not advisory personnel for client referrals.

MFT may also receive referrals from associations that we belong to or through website searches. MFT employees attend conferences at which exhibitors have booths. Employees may accept trinkets from exhibitors at conferences as long as the trinkets are less than $50 in estimated value.

Item 15: Custody

MFT does not accept custody of client funds. Clients should receive at least quarterly statements from the broker dealer, bank or other qualified custodian that holds and maintains the client's investment assets. We urge you to carefully review such statements.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

MFT does not directly provide investment management services, nor does it engage in discretionary trading within a client account.

Financial Planning Implementation Services

Should you ask us to assist you in any trade execution (including account rebalancing), it will only be done with your selected service provider and on a non-discretionary basis, requiring your prior approval for each transaction with regard to the investment and reinvestment of account assets, or for our firm to give instructions to the custodian maintaining your account.

Please note that in light of the requirement for your pre-approval you must make yourself available and keep us updated on your contact information so that instructions can be efficiently affected on your behalf.

Item 17: Voting Client Securities

We do not vote client proxies. Therefore, clients maintain exclusive responsibility for: (1) voting proxies, and (2) acting on corporate actions pertaining to the client's investment assets. The client shall instruct the client's qualified custodian to forward to the client copies of all proxies and shareholder communications relating to the client's investment assets. If the client would like our opinion on a particular proxy vote, they may contact us at the number listed on the cover of this brochure.

In most cases, you will receive proxy materials directly from the account custodian. However, in the event we were to receive any written or electronic proxy materials, we would forward them directly to you by mail, unless you have authorized our firm to contact you by electronic mail, in which case, we would forward you any electronic solicitation to vote proxies.

Item 18: Financial Information

Registered Investment Advisers are required in this Item to provide you with certain financial information or disclosures about our financial condition. We have no financial commitment that impairs our ability to meet contractual and fiduciary commitments to clients, and we have not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.

We do not have custody of client funds or securities or require or solicit prepayment of more than $500 in fees per client six months in advance.

CPA (Certified Public Accountant): Sean Mullaney is a Certified Public Accountant personally licensed by the California Board of Accountancy and the Virginia Board of Accountancy. CPAs are licensed and regulated by their state boards of accountancy. While state laws and regulations vary, the education, experience and testing requirements for licensure as a CPA generally include minimum college education (typically 150 credit hours with at least a baccalaureate degree and a concentration in accounting), minimum experience levels (most states require at least one year of experience providing services that involve the use of accounting, attest, compilation, management advisory, financial advisory, tax or consulting skills, all of which must be achieved under the supervision of or verification by a CPA), and successful passage of the Uniform CPA Examination. In order to maintain a CPA license, states generally require the completion of 40 hours of continuing professional education (CPE) each year (or 80 hours over a two-year period or 120 hours over a three-year period). Additionally, all American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) members are required to follow a rigorous Code of Professional Conduct which requires that they act with integrity, objectivity, due care, competence, fully disclose any conflicts of interest (and obtain client consent if a conflict exists), maintain client confidentiality, disclose to the client any commission or referral fees, and serve the public interest when providing financial services. The vast majority of state boards of accountancy have adopted the AICPA's Code of Professional Conduct within their state accountancy laws or have created their own.

Other Business Activities

Sean W. Mullaney, the President of MFT, self-published a book titled Solo 401(k): The Solopreneur's Retirement Account, in 2022. The book was sold in limited quantities in September 2022 and fully launched October 4, 2022. The commitment now required by the book, including time promoting the book, and accounting for royalty payments, is relatively minor. These activities generally take 0.5 to 3 hours a week, depending on promotional activities. Approximately 40 to 70 percent of this time is during securities trading hours. Sean W. Mullaney began working on this project in early 2021.

Separately, Sean W. Mullaney has ceased activities related to writing a second book regarding individual taxation and retirement savings he had intended to self-publish in 2023 or 2024.

Sean W. Mullaney also is exploring other opportunities to author books, present continuing education courses, speaking opportunities, and related opportunities for compensation. The content of these products would focus mostly on individual tax topics. This other business opportunity is not investment-related. The amount of time per month devoted to these pursuits varies, but currently average approximately 2 hours per month (but will increase if Sean W. Mullaney enters into any contracts to provide any such content). Approximately one-quarter of this time is during securities trading hours. This other business pursuit began in November 2020, and thus far Sean W. Mullaney has had one paid 1 hour speaking engagement (related to publishing his book) in early 2023.

Sean W. Mullaney started a YouTube channel in February 2022. The videos discuss tax and other financial topics. The videos will be offered on YouTube, and may be offered on other platforms such as Rumble and Odyssey. In late January 2024 the channel first qualified for monetization under YouTube's partner program. Thus, the videos generate revenue (generally adviser revenue by advertisements placed in the video by the hosting platform). Such pursuits will generally take approximately 4 hours per month, mostly during non-securities trading hours.

On occasion, MFT provides links to videos, blog articles, IRS materials, and other sites to clients to help educate them. On occasion, such links may be to Sean Mullaney's personal finance videos, and if the client chooses to watch the recommended video Sean Mullaney may receive royalties from the video provider such as YouTube. Such royalties per video view are currently likely to be less than $1.00, and clients are not obligated to view such videos if recommended to them as an educational resource by MFT.

Other than as described above, Sean W. Mullaney is not involved with outside business activities.

Performance Based Fees
